

Poverty Makes You Sick

That's why we're here.

If you're poor, you get sick more often. And when you get sick with illnesses like tuberculosis, malaria, and HIV, you're more likely to die. Medical care exists. Just not for you. Just not where you live.

In Health

Poverty makes you sick in Navajo Nation

Donations help turn around the worst diabetes outcomes in the country.

Poverty makes you sick in Haiti

Donations support clinics, hospitals, and a national teaching hospital.

Poverty makes you sick in Rwanda

Donations bring modern medical care to more than 800,000 people.

Helping poor communities to create sustainable medical care is a simple model with a 30-year track record.

We do this together. Doctors and local health workers, nurses and patients, medical systems and ministries of health, major foundations and individual donors.

We are all partners. Partners In Health.
